Resolution to Amend Presidential Policy Memorandum No. 230, Awarding of a Graduate Certificate

Dr. Hans Robinson presented the resolution for first reading. Dr. Robinson indicated that currently there is not a procedure to discontinue graduate certificates. This resolution will amend Presidential Policy Memorandum No. 230 to include periodic review of the awarding of graduate certificates and to allow for the removal of certificates that have no pending applications or awards in the past five years. Communication will be sent out to departments when the certificate has not been awarded in four years so that they can inform their students that the certificate may be discontinued. A PLAN FOR A NEW HORIZON

ENVISIONING VIRGINIA TECH 2013-2018

Improve Core and Liberal Education, Including the Incorporation of Computational Thinking

Anticipated Actions and Related Investments During the Planning Period

- The university will launch a new general education curriculum that provides foundational learning in discourse and computational thinking; a capstone experience; and interdisciplinary programs across the sciences, social sciences, arts, and humanities to complement a student's major field of study with a coherent and substantive course of study. This curriculum will engage students in self-authorship, deep reflection, and ethics.
- We will both identify and realign resources from the current general education curriculum to support the new curriculum and will invest in professional development for faculty, staff, advisors, and graduate students to support the new initiatives in general education.
- The university will construct new facilities with state-of-the-art learning environments that will showcase the very best teaching and learning experiences on campus, and we will continue to refurbish and improve existing general assignment classrooms and instructional laboratories.
- Virginia Tech will create new foundational courses in computational thinking required for fulfillment of the general education curriculum and will facilitate the development and implementation of advanced courses that focus on computational thinking for all upper-level undergraduate students.

What is a 21st Century Liberal Education?

- Empowers individuals to deal with complexity, diversity, and change.
- Provides students with broad knowledge of the wider world as well as in-depth study in a specific area of interest.
- Helps students develop a sense of social responsibility.
- Builds strong and transferable intellectual and practical skills and a demonstrated ability to apply knowledge and skills in real-world settings.

What Employers Say . . .

80%

“regardless of their major, all college students should acquire broad knowledge in the liberal arts and sciences.”

90%

demonstrate ethical judgment and integrity; intercultural skills; and the capacity for continued new learning.”

93%

Ability to think critically, communicate clearly, and solve complex problems is more important than [a candidate's] undergraduate major.”

It Takes More than a Major: Employer Priorities for College Learning and Student Success, 2013.
Washington, DC: Association of American Colleges and Universities and Hart Research Associates.

What Our Students Say . . .

“more of an interdisciplinary path, but these area views tend to promote tunnel vision. What is the big picture? Why is it important? How do I fit into the scheme of things? I think the ability to link different areas and see a connection is very important.”

“Stronger incorporation of themed courses from different areas. It can be very helpful to see how different viewpoints and approaches can tackle the same problems, and what different methods are used in doing so. I think this might help students to be more comfortable and willing to look beyond their major and attempt to take a greater variety of courses.”

This workshop is for people working on Pathways minors that are at the stage of development where they are seeking departmental and college endorsement. By the end of the workshop, participants should have a solid draft of the IPUGE (Institutional Plan for Undergraduate and Graduate Education) pre-approval form to share with their departmental and college leadership. We will work on writing the i) justification and ii) relevance sections of the IPUGE to align with Virginia Tech's strategic plan and proposed Pathways curriculum. We will complete a matrix to determine resources that might be needed and share information about the sources and procedures to acquiring those resources. Those who participated in the Oct. 24 workshop, please bring the same Curriculum Alignment Worksheet to the workshop.
