1. Winter Closing Discussion – Hal Irvin

   Dr. Irvin presented the commission with a revised proposal for the winter closing. Changes include no additional holidays for 12-month faculty and change two holidays to floating holidays for staff. This approach would prevent employees hired in late November or early December from having to take leave without pay during the holidays. Another approach would be to just use annual leave; however, this would adversely affect newly hired employees. In response to a question about using authorized closing leave, this leave is intended for emergency closings and would not be appropriate for holiday closings. It is also recognized that some areas need to be staffed during all or part of this time and accommodations will be made as needed. Facilities estimates that the university will save approximately $20,000 a day in energy and lighting costs by closing during this time.

   Dr. Irvin will prepare a resolution for the December 16 commission meeting. If approved, it will then be sent through the governance system.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 4:35 PM.
