4. Commission on Undergraduate Studies and Policies Report

Dr. Steger asked Diane Zahm, chair of the Commission on Undergraduate Studies and Policies to present briefly their goals for the academic year.

Dr. Zahm briefed the Council on two issues the Commission on Undergraduate Studies and Polices is considering:

a. The identification of themes or pathways through the CLE. This would not be a new requirement, but an approach for students to select courses related to an area of interest.

b. The VIEWS requirements – present policy does not include a process for modifying requirements within a major. It does not establish any procedures for accountability outside of the regular program reviews.

The University Curriculum Committee for Liberal Education will review both of these issues and report back the commission later this year.
5. Announcement of Approval and Posting of Commission Minutes

These minutes have been voted on electronically and will be posted on the University web (http://www.governance.vt.edu). 6. For Information Only

Minutes of University Advisory Council on Strategic Budgeting and Planning
August 28, 2008
October 1, 2008
7. Discussion – Proposed Winter Closing Policy

Dr. Steger asked Dr. Hal Irvin to explain to the Council the proposed winter closing policy. Dr. Irvin informed the council that there are three parts that need to be addressed:

a. Should the university close for a winter break between December 24 and January 1?

b. Should four staff holidays (Lee-Jackson Day, George Washington Day, Columbus Day, and Veteran’s Day) be moved to the end of the year to allow for the closing of the university?

c. Should twelve-month faculty receive the same holidays as twelve-month staff employees? (Dr. Irvin added that it is not necessary to consider this third issue now as part of the winter closing proposal.)

Dr. Irvin indicated that the proposed policy is just the first step in the process. It can be adjusted, and he will be meeting with Staff Senate and the Commission on Staff Policies and Affairs to determine what adjustments may need to be made. Annual leave could be used for these four days, but new employees may not have enough time built up. Virginia Tech is the only public university in Virginia that still operates on the state agency schedule and is one of two universities in Virginia that does not have a winter closing policy. It has been estimated by Facilities that the savings for a winter closing would be approximately $20,000 per day. Seventy-two percent of the staff took one or more days of leave during this time last year.

Listed below are areas of concern expressed by individuals during the discussion:

a. Loss of flexibility for when staff can take these four holidays – specific concern was given to Veteran’s Day.

b. Equity issue for twelve-month staff employees and twelve-month faculty – staff are being asked to take four of their holidays and use them for the winter closing, but faculty would be gaining four holidays that they currently do not have.

c. Research projects cannot be stopped during a winter closing, and these projects are located within several buildings.

d. Some employees will need to work during the proposed winter closing in order to keep up with their job duties.

e. Concerns about alternate ways to accomplish a winter closing without using the four staff holidays.

f. Some offices that must be open when the university is open but would be able to close if the university was closed would prefer the closing because it would allow employees of those offices to take the time off during the winter closing to be with their families.

Dr. Irvin indicated that adjustments can be made for special circumstances, and he, along with other university groups, will explore alternatives solutions for how the four days will be handled.

[Note: Based on the discussion at University Council, Dr. Irvin presented a modified proposal when he met with the Commission on Staff Policies and Affairs the next day, November 18, 2008.]

8. Adjournment

There being no further business, a motion was made to adjourn the meeting at 4:33 p.m.
